PROF. VEDZIE, of Michigan, has made a report relative to the alleged magnetic wells, in which he asserts that water is "not capable of receiving and retaining that peculiar state of polarity called magnetic," but that the magnetic quality is developed in the iron tubing of the wells; and that iron tubes of the same dimensions, suspended in a vertical position in earth, air or water, would exhibit the same magnetic phenomena.

The Art of Store Keeping.

Our English ancestors were called a shop keeping nation by Napoleon; but it is his own French men and French women who have the true secret of shop keeping. They make the shops fascinating. They have made shop keeping a fine art. One day the Easy Chair stepped into a shop in Maiden Lane, prepared to spend a very petty sum of money—for a very proper purpose. But if it had invaded the shop keeper's house, which is his castle, it could not have been more coolly received. The disdainful indifference with which its questions were answered was exquisitely comical, and the shop keeper proceeded to look for what was required with a superb carelessness, and an air of weariness and disgust of this incessant doing of favors to the most undeserving and insignificant people. It was plainly an act of pure grace that the Easy Chair was not instantly shot into the street as rubbish, or given in charge to the police as a common vagabond.

This worthy attendant—doubtless very estimable in his private capacity—is a serious injury to the business which he is supposed to help. He does not in the least understand his profession. Let an Easy Chair advise him to run over the sea to Paris, and observe how they keep shop in that capital. Does he want a cravat? Here is a houri, neatly dressed, evidently long waiting for him especially, and longing to serve him. "Is it a cravat that Monsieur wishes? Charming! The most ravishing styles are just ready! Is it blue, or this, or that, that Monsieur prefers? Monsieur's taste is perfect. Look! It is a miracle of beauty that he selects. Will he permit?" And before you know it, you foolish fellow, who don't understand the first principle of your calling—before you know it, she has thrown it around your neck, she has tied it deftly under your chin; and that pretty face is looking into yours, and that pleasant voice is saying, "Nothing could be better. It is the most smiling effect possible!" You might as well hope to escape the sirens as to go from under those hands without buying that cravat.

This is shop-keeping, and a little study of the art as thus practiced would be of the utmost service to the Easy Chair's friend in Maiden Lane. The shops are pretty, and especially during the holidays they are glittering, but they are a little cold and formal. The air of the Boulevards is to be detected only in the neighborhood of Corporal Thompson's Broadway Cottage. Whether cravats are wafted around the buyer's neck, as it were, entangling him hopelessly in silken and satin webs, the Easy Chair does not know. But it can believe it as it passes by upon the outside, and beholds the windows which Paris could hardly surpass. Through these windows it sees that, as in Paris, the attendants are often women. It is thereby reminded that in Paris the women are among the most accomplished accountants also; and it remembers that in the same men are cooks. It is very sure that when Madame Wells, who was afterward the Marchioness De Lavalette, became at the death of her husband the head of the great banking house, her cook was a man.

And thereupon the Easy Chair falls into meditation upon "the spheres" of the sexes, and asks itself, as it loiters about the site of the Broadway Cottage, admiring the pretty shops, whether, if it be womanly for a woman to keep a shop and to acquire property by her faithful industry, it can be manly to appropriate and use her property without her consent?—Editor's Easy Chair, in Harpers Magazine for June.

Marriage of Col. Forney's Daughter.

The marriage of Col. John W. Forney's (of the Philadelphia Press) daughter on Washington Square was the scene of a brilliant assembly Wednesday evening last, at which time Miss Mary Forney, Col. Forney's eldest daughter, was married to W. W. Weighley, Esq., a young and talented member of the Philadelphia bar. The assembly included many of the leading citizens of Philadelphia and Washington, among whom were noticed in the throng Major General Robert Patterson and staff, Major General Meade and staff, a large number of army and navy officers, Geo. W. Childs and lady, Daniel Dougherty and lady, Hon. Benjamin H. Brewster, Mrs. J. M. Lander, George H. Boker, Hon. Morton McMichael, Dr. J. H. B. McClellan, John F. Graff and lady, G. D. Brown and lady and daughter, Hon. Thomas Fitzgerald, Rev. E. W. Hutter, Hon. Jos. Allison, D. C. Forney and lady, George Pitt, Hon. F. C. Brewster, Hon. Wm. B. Mann, A. K. McClure, Hon. Galusha A. Grow and others.

In the rear of the parlors a Turkish tent had been erected, and a band of music discoursed most eloquent music.

At precisely eight o'clock, the band played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," and the bridal party entered the parlors, which were filled with guests. Col. Forney preceded it, with Mrs. Forney, who was dressed in a magnificent white silk. Then came the beautiful and accomplished bride, dressed in white, with a long bridal vail sweeping over her whole person. The bridal attendants were Lieut. Col. Jas. Forney and Miss Kate Hart, John W. Forney, Jr., and Miss Oliver, of Boston, Hon. John Cochrane, of New York, and Miss Barnes, Miss Clarence Hart and Miss Annie Forney. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Suddards, of the Episcopal Church. He made a few appropriate remarks, and in a few moments the young couple were pronounced husband and wife.

The parlors were thronged until midnight. Great numbers of distinguished citizens were continually calling. President Grant was expected, but sent a regret as public business detained him in Washington. Shortly after ten the bridal party left and went to their new home Nineteenth street, near Chestnut. The festivities were prolonged until after midnight. Mr. and Mrs. Forney both looked remarkably well, and entertained the guests with princely courtesy and hospitality.

Put Yourself in His Place in America --The Crispin Union--A Chinese Colony in Massachusetts.

A colony of Chinese has been brought from California and settled at North Adams, Massachusetts. The Crispins have made some opposition to this arrangement, as the new comers are intended for the shoe manufactories. A correspondent of the Boston Advertiser at that place wrote on Wednesday:

"The Chinese shoemakers have had another holiday to-day, this being found necessary to complete the preparation of their quarters, and for rest from the fatiguing journey. They have been busy in many ways, some washing out clothes, some learning the English language, some studying arithmetic in the calculating machines they have brought with them. One rapid learner, who did not know a single letter yesterday, has mastered the alphabet perfectly. The Chinese foreman has visited the stores with Mr. Sampson's foreman, made many purchases of dishes, shirts, &c., has not been molested by the Crispins, and has been very heartily welcomed to town by many citizens. The instructor engaged by Mr. Sampson to teach the new hands, a veteran shoe manufacturer from Springfield, has arrived, and proposes to begin his task to-morrow. He had been in town but a few hours when he was accosted by strangers, one after another, and warned with various significant hints that it would be well for him to desist, and was told that money might be made by going home. He is a man of some obstinacy, however, and not likely to be either frightened or bribed away. Otherwise the Crispins have not made any demands and are not likely to make any at present. There are some citizens of the town, not Crispins, who think they see cause for alarm in the introduction of 'slaves,' as they call them, fearing a decrease of trade by the Chinese habits of cheap living, but the better class of residents unanimously approve Mr. Sampson's movement as made necessary by the outrageous conduct of the Crispins, and express confidence that they will give no trouble, if well treated, but harmonize with New England communities."

REPORTERS are at last "looking up." In Ohio they are talking about running the gentleman who has acted as a reporter for the Supreme Court for some years as a candidate for Supreme Judge in that State.

A Singular Case--A Man Lives Six Years with a Minnie Ball in his Brain.

The tenacity with which some people cling to life border on the miraculous. Wounds which, according to all the laws of nature, are necessarily mortal, to those tenacious people are mere scratches. A case of this sort is just now attracting considerable attention among the medical fraternity of this city. It is that of a man who for over six years has lived with a minnie ball in his brain.

In 1864, Abraham De Bond, of Washington county, Kentucky, a member of a Kentucky Federal regiment, was shot in the forehead with a minnie ball in a skirmish at Fair Garden, East Tennessee. When struck by the ball he fell to the ground insensible, and it was at first supposed he had been killed. He subsequently exhibited signs of life, and was taken from the battle field to the hospital. The ball entered the forehead just above the right eye, and as there was an opening in the temple, just in front and slightly above the right ear, it was supposed that the ball had passed entirely through.

The man did not die, as every one who saw the wound thought he would, and he soon so far recovered as to be sent home. The wound did not heal up, and there has been a continual discahrge from it ever since its infliction. The man's health has never been good since he was wounded, and at times he has suffered terribly with pains in the head, and if by any means the discharge from the wound was permitted to cease he would sink into a stupor. Other than this, his intellect does not seem to have been impaired by the singular weight added to his brain. Recently his sufferings have been so intense that he consulted a physician who said that the pain arose from dead bone, and that it would have to be removed before he could obtain relief. De Bond came to this city and placed himself under the care of physicians, who decided that it was necessary to perform the operation of trephining, and a day or two since undertook the operation. During the progress of the operation they detected the presence of lead, and with the forceps extracted a minnie ball flattened into the shape of a chestnut from the man's skull. It had entered the lateral sinus and fractured the internal table, and was resting upon the brain. It is supposed that a fragment of the ball had been chipped off and passed out through the temple, leading to the belief that the ball had passed entirely through the skull. The removal of the ball gave great and immediate relief, and De Bond is now at St. Joseph's Infirmary, on Fourth street, with every prospect of a speedy and perfect recovery. —Louisville Courier Journal.

Death of a Noted Tenant of the French War Office.

The French papers announce the death of Jacko, the famous parrot in the War Office in Paris. Jacko was first brought into the office in 1830, by Marshal Soult, and he remained forty years at his post, unaffected by revolutions or party conflicts. After a time he came to be looked upon as an indispensable appendage of the War Department, and when there was a Cabinet crisis people used to ask who was to get, not the War Office portfolio, but the War Office parrot. Though he served under eighteen different Ministers he always remained consistent to the principles which were instilled into him when he first entered office. Both under the Republic and the Second Empire he remained a staunch royalist, and there were few members of his party who spoke their minds with so much frankness. One day his repeated cries of "Vive le roi," so annoyed Marshal Leroy de St. Arnaud when he was War Minister, that he ordered the indiscreet bird to be turned out. Jacko had a friend, however, in the porter, who took him into his loge and taught him to add "De St. Arnaud" to his usual cry. The bird was then put back into his room, and as the Marshal was passing screamed out "Vive le roy de St. Arnaud!" "A la bonne heure," said the Minister, and Jacko was at once retaken into favor. Of late years the clerks tried to teach him "Vive l'Empereur!" but he never could bring out the entire sentence without tremendous efforts. He got on very well as far as "Vive l'Empe——" but at this point he seemed to choke, his feathers stood on end, and his eyes rolled with an anxious expression as if he felt his conscience reproaching him. At last, after several minutes' intense struggling, he would jerk out the last syllable "—reur" in a hoarse, sepulchral tone. He died immediately after the Duchess of Berry, and on the anniversary of the death of Napoleon I, three days before the plebiscitum.

A Love of Rattlesnakes.

There is in La Crosse, Wisconsin, a certain John McKee, who has a singular fondness for rattlesnakes. He has made, says the Republican of that place, "a perfectly tight, square den, about five feet each way, and as many high, open at the top, and therein are eleven rattlesnakes, from eighteen inches to three feet and a half in length—a sight to behold! Writhing, twisting, turning, and folding upon, over and under each other, or, with heads erect, with keen eyes glistening, and wicked-looking serpent tongues protruding from their ugly mouths with lightning-like swiftness, there they are, a moving, twining, hideous-looking mass of serpents! It is a terrible sight. And then to see McKee coolly and deliberately enter among them, and take them each in his hand, call it by name, open its mouth, and while he is giving you its history to see the reptile lay its head upon his cheek, and run its devilish tongue at you, while its eyes seem to emit sparks of fire—ugh! it's too horrible! And all the while the others at his feet are keeping up a continual buzzing, rattling, humming, which fill the air with low murmurs, and causes a certain creeping of the flesh and shuddering at the heart, which is not at all pleasant. Mr. McKee caught them on the bluffs near the city, from a nest of over one hundred in number, and is training them for exhibition.

A French Thief.

The other day, says a French paper, a lady went into a haberdasher's shop, Rue Richelieu, and bought a pearl-grey silk dress. The shopman had noticed a tolerably well dressed man standing at the door after the arrival of the lady and seeming to watch all her movements. Stepping up to the cashier's desk the lady drew a 200 franc note from her purse. At that moment the man outside rushed into the shop, gave the lady a box on the ear, and tore the note out of her hands. "I had forbidden you to buy that dress," cried he, "but I watched you, and you shall not have it." With these words he hastened away, the lady fainted, and the persons employed in the shop, supposing the intruder to be an offended husband, made no remark and let him go. When the lady recovered the proprietor of the establishment expressed his regret at this violent scene, and pitied her for being dependent on so brutal a husband. "My husband!" cried the lady eagerly. "Sir, that man is not my husband; I do not know him, and have never seen him." The pretended husband was a daring thief.

THE following tragic story comes from Pesth, and bears the date of the 23d of March: Two brothers, of the principal families of Sy-Tatanaz, lived in the bitterest hatred the one to the other. They even carried their hatred so far as to desire to change their names, so that the one should not bear the abhorred name of the other. The daughter of one of the brothers, however, named Zouszi, and the son of the other, Pista, were deeply in love. They had in vain begged for the consent of their parents to their union. At length they rosolved to die together, since there was no prospect of marriage. They accordingly put on their best attire, went into a neighboring garden, and there Pista shot Zouszi through the heart, afterward putting a bullet into his own brain. Troubled by presentiments of evil, the two fathers followed their children into the garden, and finding them both dead, they shot themselves in remorse. Shortly afterwards the mothers of the lovers happening to pass by, saw the four corpses, and attempted to kill themselves with knives, but were prevented by the neighbors, who had now hastened on to the scene. Of course readers are left at liberty to believe as much of this story as they choose.

The more ultra supporters of infallibility intend to renew the scene of June 3d, if the debate promises to last too long. Fearful Affair in Illinois—A Mother Attempts to Destroy her Family and Herself.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CHICAGO, June 18.—On the evening of the 16th, near Woodshore, Illinois, Mrs. Peter Weilzel, in the absence of her husband, while her son aged eighteen years, was sitting at the table eating his supper, seized an ax and dealt him several blows on the head, breaking in his skull, and rendering him insensible. She then seized a razor and rushed upon her little daughter aged eight years, who was asleep on a lounge, and cut her throat in a shocking manner. The daughter managed to escape, reached the neighbors and gave the alarm. When the neighbors rushed in, Mrs. Weilzel was found in her bedroom, with her windpipe entirely severed. Doctors were called in and the wound dressed. The recovery of the son and daughter is probably hopeful, that of the mother doubtful. The family are Germans, poor, hard working people. Trouble with the neighborhood, and other misfortunes, rendered the woman insane. It was her intention to destroy the whole family.

The Abolition of the Franking Privilege—The Case of Whittemore, Reelected as Representative from South Carolina.

WASHINGTON, June 18, 1870.

SENATE.

Mr. CONKLING, from Judiciary Committee, reported a substitute for the House bill in reference to naturalization laws, and gave notice he would call it up at an early day.

The substitute is the Senate bill recently reported from the Judiciary Committee on the same subject, with an additional section authorizing U. S. Marshals in cities having over 20,000 inhabitants to appoint as many special deputies as may be necessary to preserve order at any election at which members of Congress are to be chosen.

Mr. CARPENTER, from Judiciary Committee, reported as amended the House bill fixing the compensation of grand and petit jurors in circuit and district courts of the United States at three dollars per day. Passed.

Mr. DRAKE introduced a land grant bill in aid of the St. James and Little Rock Railroad.

Mr. WILLIAMS called up the land grant bill in aid of the Atcheson, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad. Passed.

Mr. HOWARD called up the bill to amend the Land Grant Act of 1866, in aid of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific coast, by the Southern route.

Several amendments being adopted, the bill, after discussion, was laid over till Monday.

Mr. TRUMBULL, from Judiciary Committee, reported a bill for the relief of purchasers of land sold for direct taxes in the insurrectionary States.

The Senate, in Committee of the Whole, took up unfinished business, the postoffice appropriation bill and amendments relative to the repeal of the franking privilege.

Mr. THURMAN moved an amendment that the abolition of the franking privilege shall not take effect until August. Adopted.

Mr. MORGAN opposed the amendment for two cent postage as involving a loss of postal revenues without any corresponding benefit, as it would not increase mail matter one per cent. He held that the present rates of postage were sufficiently low.

After further debate the Senate voted on Mr. Ramsey's amendment as amended, abolishing the frankling privilege, providing for one cent postage, &c. The amendment was rejected—yeas 16, nays 36.

The following is the vote:

Yeas—Messrs. Chandler, Fenton, Hamilton, (Texas) Hamlin, Harlan, Howell, McCreary, Morton, Pratt, Ramsey, Schurz, Sumner, Scott, Thurman, Willey, and Yates—16.

Nays—Messrs. Ames, Bayard, Boreman, Cole, Drake, Ferry, Fowler, Harris, Howard, Johnston, McDonald, Morrill, (Maine) Morrell, (Vt.) Osborn, Pool, Rice, Robertson, Ross, Sawyer, Spencer, Sprague, Stewart, Stockton, Thayer, Tipton, Trumbull, Vickers, Warren and Willams—30.

The bill was then reported to the Senate, when Mr. RAMSEY renewed his amendment and appealed to the Senate to vote upon the direct question of abolishing the franking privilege.

Mr. DRAKE renewed his amendment relative to newspapers, which was accepted by Mr. Ramsey as a modification of his own.

Mr. MORRILL, of Vermont, renewed his amendment.

Mr. THURMAN appealed to the chairman of the Postoffice Committee (Mr. Ramsey) to withdraw his proposition, as it had been voted on in committee.

Mr. HARLAN thought the fate of the franking bill depended upon its being appended to an appropriation bill. As a friend of the measure, he was willing a direct vote should be taken upon it.

Mr. TRUMBULL said it would be impossible to get a direct vote, as the majority of the Senate seemed determined to prevent that by amending the proposition.

After numerous suggestions, which were not acted upon, as to the best means of determining the sense of the Senate on the various propositions, the amendment of Mr. Morrill (Vermont) was rejected—21 to 28—Senators asserting they would vote down all amendments.

The Senate then adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Senate joint resolution for the appointment of a Naval Board to examine the cases of officers who deem themselves unjustly passed over by promotions made in conformity with the act of Congress of July 25th, 1866, was passed.

Mr. ASPER, from the Committee on Military, reported a bill amending the act in relation to the sale of the St. Louis Arsenal grounds. Passed.

The bill to restore the pension of Margaret L. Bybee, of Tennessee, was rejected—yeas 52, nays 75.

Mr. WASHBURNE, (Mass.) from the Committee on Claims, reported back the Senate bill to authorize the settlement of the accounts of officers of the army and navy in cases where vouchers were lost and for over payments, &c., with an amendment limiting settlements to sums under $5,000, and to officers in whose accounts there is no apparent fraud. The amendment was agreed to and the bill passed.

The Speaker submitted the credentials of B. F. Whittemore, from the First Congressional District of South Carolina.

The credentials were read.

Mr. LOGAN objected to Mr. Whittemore being sworn in, for reasons he was prepared to state to the House. He did not want the matter referred to any committee. The House was committee enough to judge of it. He objected to the oath of office being administered to this man because he had disqualified himself from being a member of this body.

Mr. FARNSWORTH argued the matter should be referred to a committee, so the action of the House might be based upon a full presentation of the facts and authorities.

Mr. LOGAN did not want the question to go to any committee to be pocketed until after the adjournment of Congress. He wanted the question settled by the House now. There was no necessity for examination by a committee. It was not a case of contested election. It was a mere question of qualification.

The Speaker suggested that as the day was consigned to the business of the Committee on Claims, the matter be postponed till Tuesday next after the morning hour.

Mr. LOGAN accepted the suggestion and moved the matter be postponed till Tuesday after the morning hour.

Mr. GARFIELD suggested a resolution to make it a rule of the House that in case any person presents himself at the bar of the House to be sworn in as a member elect, who may have been expelled or who may have resigned at the same Congress while a resolution for his expulsion was pending, it shall be in order before administering the oath to him to refer the case to the Committee which had in charge the resolution of expulsion, or the House may at once act on the case.

Mr. LOGAN remarked a reference to a committee would be treating the case with consideration. It was not entitled to it. It was a mere question whether the House would stand by its unanimous resolution that this man was unworthy of holding a seat in the House.

After further discussion the question was postponed till Tuesday next after the morning hour, and the House proceeded with business from the Committee on Claims.

After disposing of a large number of private claims.

Mr. MERCUR, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill to amend the act of 11th of June, 1864, changing and defining the boundaries of the eastern and western districts of Virginia. Passed.

Mr. SCHENCK gave notice that on Monday next, after the morning hour, he would move to proceed with business on the Speaker's table.

Adjourned.

Extensive Fire at Panama—Accident to the Steamer Henry Chauncey—The Darien Surveying Expedition.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 19.—The steamship Merrimac, from Rio Janeiro via St. Thomas, has arrived, and brings the following important news from Aspinwall, received via the English mail steamer at St. Thomas:

Panama, June 5.—A terrible fire broke out here at 1:30 this morning, originating in the Aspinwall Hotel. It is still raging, and has reached the Bank of Panama, which is in flames. Attempts are being made to blow up a house in the rear of the bank near the Cathedral, to prevent the spread of the flames to the Grand Hotel. The roof of the Cathedral is burning in several places. The Panama Mail office is in danger. Families are rushing from their dwellings, and the streets and plaza are strewn with furniture and church ornaments. The supply of water is scanty, the people inactive and the flames allowed to do their work almost unresisted. There is terrible excitement and alarm.

Later 11 A. M.—The flames are subdued. Many casualties have occurred. Twelve deaths are reported and others believed buried in the ruins of the Aspinwall Hotel. A number of persons are also injured.

Aspinwall, June 5.—The steamer Henry Chauncey broke her port shaft thirty-five minutes after leaving the wharf at this harbor. She put back and will proceed to New York under convoy, working one wheel.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Advices from the Darien Expedition to May 30th are received. The weather continued unfavorable—rains daily heavy, swelling the streams to torrents, making it difficult to keep the working parties supplied with provisions. The survey from the Bay of San Blas had, however, proceeded twenty miles. The highest elevation found was 300 feet, and the elvation of rivers 295 feet. It is believed the survey will be continued until the parties cross the Dividing Ridge and communicate with that from the Nyack on the Pacific side, who had gone some distance up the Byaus and were about to leave it for Marmonia. The general health of the expedition was fair; there was no sickness except fever and ague. The men are dissatisfied with Capt. Selfridge's determination to prolong their stay on the Isthmus and five have deserted from the storeship Guard. The officers and men complain. Their endurance is taxed to the utmost and longer stay in such a climate will be dangerous. Most of the men have worn out their clothing and shoes and the officers are little better off. At the date of the latest dispatch the expedition dined on fresh potatoes, beets and carrots from San Francisco.

Plea in Behalf of Fenian Gen. Gleason —The Attorney Generalship—Antecedents of Mr. Ackermann—Probable Impeachment of a Texas Judge —Lloyd-Aspinwall Case to be Arbitrated.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 18, 1870.

FENIAN GENERAL GLEASON.

It is understood the President will order legal proceedings against the Fenian General Gleason to be discontinued. Gov. Fenton and Gen. McMahon visited the White House yesterday, to present certain reasons for leniency that apply specially to Gleason's case. The President heard the matter fully, and consented to order such measures as will lead to the discharge of Gleason from the custody of the officers of the law without subjecting him to expense and annoyance of a trial. He belonged to the regular organization of the Fenians, and was opposed to the invasion of Canada.

THE ATTORNEY GENERALSHIP.

The Senate went into executive session and took up the nomination of Mr. Ackerman as Attorney General, and referred it to the Judiciary Committee. This is somewhat unusual for Cabinet appointments, but there are some points about Mr. Ackerman's status which probably necessitates an examination. He participated in the rebellion in so far as to require the removal of his disabilities, not being able to take the test oath. His petition was granted prior to his acceptance of the office of United States District Attorney for Georgia. His connection with the rebellion is said to have been during the last year of the war. When conscription was at its height in Georgia, he sought refuge in what was known at the South as a bomb-proof appointment, being appointed to a position on the staff of General Toombs, who never did any duty but home guard service. Although this act was voluntary, nevertheless it was an act of protection. It enabled him to stay in the State, from which he would otherwise have been driven. The Government has no warmer friend, nor the Republican party a warmer supporter.

Doubts are expressed of the confirmation of Mr. Ackerman as Attorney General, but a careful canvass of the Senate indicates that there will be very little opposition to him.

PROBABLE IMPEACHMENT.

It appears from the records of the Treasury Department that the Hon. J. H. Duval, United States Judge for the western district of Texas, was holding court at the time of the breaking out of the war. He escaped through the lines, after remaining in the Confederacy for two years, and upon his arrival at Washington presented a claim for his salary during that period, and taking the iron-clad oath at the same time. On recommendations from Judge Holt, Secretary Seward and others, President Lincoln ordered the payment of the claim. It is now stated by gentlemen from Texas, who have certain records of the late Confederacy, that Duval took the oath of allegiance to the Confederate Government, and drew his salary as Judge from the rebel Treasury. It is therefore proposed to prefer charges against him, and ask for his impeachment by Congress.

WILL ARBITRATE.

The Spanish Government has consented to arbitrate the question of indemnity for the seizure and detention of the steamer Lloyd Aspinwall, and the matter was referred to a committee consisting of one person on each side, who will select an umpire. The State Department selected J. C. Williams, of the shipping firm of Williams & Guion, New York, and the Spanish Government will probably select a prominent Spanish merchant. The Spanish Government is said to indicate a sincere desire to settle the claim. The crew also have claims.

TOOK LEAVE.

At the Cabinet meeting yesterday Attorney General Hoar took official leave of his coadjutors in the Cabinet. He goes to Cambridge, Massachusetts, in a few days, to attend the Harvard Commencement, returning to Washington to transfer his portfolio to his successor.

FINANCIAL MATTERS.

The Internal Revenue receipts for the week were $737,357; fiscal year to date, $175,843,883. Coin in the Treasury, $109,767,595; Coin Certificates, $34,094,000. Currency balance, $21,536,988.

CINCINNATI.

The Great Saengerfest Picnic—Forty Thousand People Present—Accident to a Steamboat.

CINCINNATI, June 19.—The grand Saengerfest picnic came off to-day, at Short's Grove. Steamboats were plying between the city and grounds all day, and trains were running at short intervals. About forty thousand persons were present. Speeches were made by Dr. Lilienthal, Dr. Wise, Judge Stallo, Col. Moore, and Wm. S. Furay. The singers in attendance upon the Saengerfest were banqueted, and the day was largely spent in singing, instrumental music and festivity. The immense concourse was orderly.

An accident occurred to the Ben Franklin which was nigh being serious. She had been chartered to convey persons to the pic-nic, and while endeavoring to pass the bridge her chimneys struck. About one hundred persons were on board. Many were badly frightened and some endeavored to jump overboard, but were restrained. The pilot house was completely demolished. The pilot, Frank Robinson, was seriously hurt, and James B. Troy, a boy, bruised.

Small Arms and Accoutrements for the United States Army—Revision of Tactics.

ST. LOUIS, June 19.—The Board of Army Officers, of which General Schofield is President, appointed by Gen. Sherman to select and report upon small arms and accoutrements for the use of the United States, concluded their experiments last week. The variety of small arms and accoutrements presented for the consideration of the Board was unusually large, consisting of forty-eight different systems of breech loading rifles, carbines, pistols and revolvers, each possessing distinct peculiarities and each being valuable and ingenious improvements on former systems; also seventy-two sets of accoutrements, cartridge boxes, &c. The Board subjected all the arms to rigid experimental tests, the result of which will be promulgated only through official reports. Among those tested are included several sent by European manufacturers and now in use by some of the European governments, but although excellent weapons they were found to be inferior to many of American invention. Hereafter the rifle for infantry and carbine and pistol for cavalry will be of the same system of breech mechanism, and each with a calibre of fifty inches. As soon as selections of this Board are introduced among the troops, it is thought they will be armed and equipped superior to any European armies.

The same officers have also been entrusted with the revision of tactics for cavalry, artillery and infantry. This part of their labors is also rapidly approaching completion, the Government printing office at Department Headquarters being engaged in printing the final reports intended for Washington. They have harmonized the tactics for the three arms of service as far as practicable, introduce many new and important evolutions and simplified the whole system of commands, establishing upon a regular and uniform basis. A Committee of the Board are now at Fort Hays, Kansas, where eight companies have assembled to allow them to practically test their new tactics.

THE CALL for the election of delegates to the forthcoming Republican County Nominating Conventions, issued by the Chairman of the Executive Committee, appears in another column of to-day's paper.

SPAIN is willing to make honorable amends for the outrage on American commerce in the seizure and detention of the steamer Aspinwall, inasmuch as it would be quite unfortunate for that nation to involve itself in any slight unpleasantness with our government, particularly at this juncture of affairs with Cuba.

IT IS PROBABLE that Mr. Ackerman will be confirmed successor to Attorney General Hoar, but the Senate will be first satisfied as to his antecedents during the war. His record is not the rosiest for loyalty, but he may succeed in explaining that his connection with the Confederate Army was more compulsory than of his own election.

THE BRILLIANT SUCCESS which has attended thus far the great International Saengerfest at Cincinnati, is a matter worthy the pride and congratulations of all classes of our people. It is a grand peace spectacle, and following so closely on the somewhat similar Boston Jubilee, betokens an awakening throughout the land of a new love and enthusiasm for the fine arts.

THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARY MEETINGS to select delegates to the forthcoming nominating conventions already excite attention, and in many districts tickets have been put forward for the support of the people. It is a matter of grave importance that none but good, true and honest representatives should find seats in the conventions—men who will not be biased in their judgment or influenced to nominate any but such candidates as will unite the people in hearty support. It is well to earnestly urge the voters of the district to attend the primary elections and to see to it that their duty is faithfully discharged so far as the selection of proper delegates is concerned. No one who purposely absents himself from the polls at the election for delegates can have good cause to complain of the material out of which the conventions may be composed, or their actions in nominating assembly.

EUROPE is about to be convulsed in a general strike among the workmen who are dissatisfied with their conditions. These strikes generally accomplish no betterment of the condition of the laborers, but entail upon them a train of distressing evils. Labor the world over is worth only what it will bring, and in foreign countries it brings hardly enough to sustain the lives of the operators, who are compelled to drag through miserable existences in their native lands or emigrate to other countries. It is against such ill requited labor that the friends of free trade would bring our own reasonably remunerated working men into competition. When protection is withdrawn from our own laborers and the pernicious doctrines of the free traders' prevail, we can well anticipate the same miserable situation in which the foreign working classes are now groaning for those who are now happy and contented in the workshops of the land.

THEORY VS. PRACTICE.

History discloses a great mass of profitless speculation. Vain attempts have been made to accomplish impracticable schemes. To their authors the success of their plans seemed certain and their own fame and fortunes secure. There was but a single step between the present and the realization of their fondest hopes. But some unforeseen and uncalculated element defeated all their plans and forever disappointed their high hopes, and rendered the remaining part of their lives wretched. So many a life has been wasted and many a high expectation disappointed. In the single department of patents there have been 30,000 such the past year. And then there are the books written which are to secure immortality to their authors, but are never published; the discoveries to be made which are never realized. So it has been all along the page of history. The alchemist was for a long time on the very verge of discovering the philosopher's stone, the elixir of life. The astronomers formed many a theory of the heavens which further investigation or discovery proved fallacious. The chemist had his absurd theories of combustion, electricity and attraction, and the lover of wealth his views of gold never realized.

The theoretical and practical are not always combined in the same individual. To speculate is easy; to really invent and discover are not so easy. How numerous were the theories of the way in which a return to a specie basis was to be secured, and yet the result has not been reached. There was of all of them but one best way. The end will at some time be attained, but when it is not so easy to affirm. Because it will at some time come, it by means follows that it must be done at once. Immediate resumption would have been general ruin. The boy will become, if spared, a man. But it by no means follows that on that account he is now to be entrusted with all the cares and have imposed all the toils of manhood. So it has been said all wars and fighting, and even self defence are wrong, as the time will come—millineal period—when they will cease, therefore they shall cease now to be practised. All attacks on individuals and nations should be submitted to without any attempt at defence. The wicked should be allowed unrestricted license to kill and destroy. Such was Wayland's theory of the war, but when our great life struggle commenced, when his views were put to the test he abandoned them, rewrote his section on this subject and was found in the public hall earnestly and eloquently urging the people to rescue our nation from ruin. So also wrote Walker, the ultra peace man, but when their Peace Convention assembled in Boston, at the commencement of our struggle, he and nearly all others with him declared this war to be a righteous one and were earnest in its advocacy. His views of Free Trade, when put to the test, are equally unsound.

The time will come, it is said, when Free Trade doctrines will prevail in this country. Admit it, what follows? That we should now in all respects carry them out? By no means. The theory is good, if all men had started together and with the same advantages in the race. But England had a thousand years the start of us, and in all this long period has come gradually to her laws on this subject. The child of a day is asked to compete in all things with the parent of a half century, and told it must suffer if it cannot. What we are to be centuries hence we should be now. The acorn should become the tall and strong oak at once. Only Indian jugglery can effect this, and only similar jugglery can deceive people into the doctrine of immediate Free Trade and non-protection to any department of American industry. These advocates for immediate and unconditional Free Trade, who are assuming England as the standard of right, do not tell how she did protect herself and how she now does it, or how New England never could have succeeded in her manufactures for which she so earnestly contended, that no purely agricultural nation has ever become rich or powerful, or that nations have risen or fallen with their manufactories, or that the interests of the laborer are as closely connected with the success of manufactories as are those of the capitalist. They have a theory which they are sure is correct, but which has never been tried in precisely our circumstances, and they neglect to inquire if it is fit and expedient for us now. The practical man says the time has not come—that with Free trade now the wages of the operative must be reduced so low that he could not support himself, or that our manufactories must be closed, affording no employment to the operative and bringing incalcuable evils on our land.

Theoretically, all men should do right, but they do not; theoretically, all men should be allowed to buy and sell what they please, provided they do not interfere with the rights of others, but practically we restrict men in the sales of gun powder, poisons and ardent spirits and certain kinds of publications, and we arrest and punish those who disobey the laws. When all men shall be good the laws may be different. When all nations shall be disposed to do right and circumstances shall be equal, then the laws may be the same.

THAT THIRD PARTY.

The movement to establish a third party, whose object is to accomplish a "reform" in the Republican party, is enveloped in so much mystery that it hardly deserves any more notice. Whoever framed it or designed the plan has been discreet enough—or perhaps cowardly enough would be better words—to screen himself and coadjutors from public gaze, for no names have yet been given in connection with the movement. No true Republican can attach his name to such a paper with impunity, for he will thereby shut himself out of the communion, and to no purpose and for no plausible reason whatever, be left to muse over treachery unrequited. The Dispatch, an independent journal that cannot be called organ of either the Republicans or Democrats, has doubtless unearthed the birth-place of the thus far fatherless whelp, in the following strong article, which we publish entire, believing that the insight into the movement which it affords, should be enjoyed by all the voters in the county:

As we suspected would be the case, the Commercial failed yesterday to give the names of the signers to its call for a convention for the formation of a third party. The understood reason for this is, that it has few or no names, and fears to publish what it has, lest the weakness of its movement should become apparent. This fact being settled, it only remains for us to expose the corruption and villainy involved in this movement, as it properly deserves. The movement is based on the pretense that it is necessary to secure purity in the Republican party. It proposes to secure this by forestalling, not only the regular convention of the party, but even the primary meetings, at which the delegates to the convention are elected! Thus, under pretense of securing purity, it really takes, so far as it has power, the entire nomination from the regular convention and delegates from the people; that this is utterly corrupt and dishonest a few considerations will show. No fact is more clearly determined in party politics than that when the people, become tired of any particular regime or office-holders, or of the manner in which the affairs of the party are conducted, they perfectly understand how to remedy the evil. They simply go to the primary meetings, elect delegates whom they know, and the work is done. Usually even this is not required. No man can maintain his prestige as a party leader who does not either give that party success or conduct its affairs so honestly as to command confidence. The only hold politicians have on a party is that which is either voluntary or supinely conceded. Granting, then, that the Commercial is right in its views as to corruption in the management of the party, there are ready and ample remedies within the party organization. And the Commercial well knows that one-half the effort it will put forth to develop a third party would do much toward rendering the party organization perfectly satisfactory to every honest man in the party, if it is not now. The third party movement is not, therefore, an honest attempt at reform. It is an attempt to dominate the party by means of a threat of a split. It is an attempt to foist upon the party a "ring," which shall dictate its nominations and policy. Such attempts are always dishonest and corrupt. They are always advocated as "reforms," but always turn out most villainous corruptions.

But the Commercial's editorial supporting the movement contains internal evidence of glaring dishonesty. The heading to its article, "Throw the Tea Overboard," if it means anything, means an entire cutting loose from the Republican party. All through, it professes to have hearsay knowledge of the nature of the proposed movement, when it knows it originated in the Commercial office, and that it has no respectable Republican support. It claims also that it cannot be used for the disintegration of the Republican party, when it knows it is doing its utmost to bring about just this result. It claims that the desire is for the people to nominate a strong and honest ticket, when it adopts precisely the same methods in nominating its crowd. It practically claims that the movement is spontaneous, when it knows that it originated in the Commercial office, and has no Republican strength. It professes to desire to remedy evil and does not wait to see if the evil exists. It is simply a sham and a lie and is an attempt to dictate the party nominations. After so much hypocrisy and double-dealing as its editorial presents, we must be excused from believing it when it asserts what the regular convention will do. But hypocrisy and falsehood aside, the attempt to forestall the regular action of the party is an especial outrage. Of course, it is better, if we have traitors, that they show their hands early. It enables us to gauge their resources, and estimate their force. We know, directly, just what the party has to contend against. But all this does not take away from the contemptible meanness of an attempt to forestall the action of the party, and to take other action in its name, before it is known that its regular action will be unsatisfactory. It is equivalent to affirming that the people, as well as the party, are not to be trusted. Aside from corrupt motives involved, the movement simply flaunts insult in the face of the people. And especially so, when it is known that the people intend to be present at the primaries and to elect delegates to represent them in convention. Dare the Commercial proclaim the people dishonest?

The simple truth is, the Commercial having failed in blackmailing Senator Cameron, or in producing any result by violent personal assaults on members of the party in the county and State, has abandoned this guerrilla mode of warfare, and has desperately turned political highwayman, demanding of the Republican party its control or its life. "Rule or ruin" is its motto. Its silly attempt to plunge its ostrich head in editorial sand will hardly hide its real animus. Its caution is that of the tremulous thief. In attempting to guard every point, it exposes all. But let it remember that few succeed by treachery. It certainly will not.

A PARTY of Irishmen, near Berea, Ohio, assaulted a Bohemian, and pounded him with stones, cutting him severely, and destroying his sight. The conductor and brakeman of a passing train interfered, but were driven off by overwhelming numbers of Irishmen and stones.

The Bantling--Who Are Its Parents.

MESSRS. EDITORS GAZETTE: The writer hereof, as you well know, is not a politician, as that term is usually applied now-a-days, is not an office seeker, never was one, and never expects to be one, and says thus much by way of introduction to what follows. He further adds that he is an ardent, uncompromising and honest friend of the Republican party, pure and simple, and is fully as ardent, politically speaking, in his hatred of anything and everything that has the appearance of latter day Democracy attached to it.

Why am I a Republican and not a Democrat? or what is worse, one of those nasty, nameless things that hang upon the skirts of every party, waiting to lick the hands that may toss it a crumb, and stands ready to hurrah for a sixpence, upon all occasions? Why should we be open, avowed, honest party men, ready and willing to support our fellows, and through them the country and its institutions? Is the Republican party unworthy of our support, is it without a history of its own, has it no record to which it can refer, has it accomplished nothing for the country, is it a thing of mushroom growth to be trampled upon, are its supporters generally classed among the friends of the Government or its enemies, in a word, are we prepared to sanction anything that may disorganize and finally destroy this noble old party that has stuck so grandly by the country, the flag and its supporters, through good and through evil report; the party that carried the war through to a triumphant conclusion that put down slavery; that routed treason from the very doors of the Capitol, and rescued the government from the hands of traitors; hands that were already at the throat of Liberty and Law. Hold! stop! think friends, think of what you are doing, before you thoughtlessly give countenance to a movement which promises the entire disruption of the old party of the Union, and upon its ashes permits the jagged, and defeated remnants of copperheadism, allied with "sore heads" of our own threatened party, to rear their unholy and polluted idols!! Is this picture a true one? Is the unity of the Republican party threatened? Are the restless spirits who are moving Heaven and earth to accomplish our ruin, composed of the working rank and file of our party; or, are they not, to a man, defeated and deluded aspirants for office, now bent upon destroying that which they found they could not rule?

Do you find any person engaged in circulating these petitions for the disruption of the Republican party, who was known as a working party man, when such men were needed to defeat the designs of the country's enemies during the rebellion? Do these new frauds promise that this new party is to run itself, without leaders? Is it possible to conduct any political party without leaders? Are they not necessary to the success, or indeed, to the life itself of any party? Do they promise, then, that the leaders (the rings if you please) of the new movement, are to be incorruptible patriots, model reformers, proof against any, and every selfish emotion, higher better and nobler men than those who had stood by the party and its nominees, and its principles in times past, times when it tried men's souls; when "Hell itself did gape and bid them hold their peace?"

If such be the expectation of any person, I can tell him beforehand, that he is doomed to disappointment. Already the avant-couriers prove the character of the material that is to follow and give unto us a new Moses to lead us in the exodus from "corruptions, rings," and all unholy alliances, to the land of promise, "the land of the hereafter," the Kingdom of Righteousness, where rings are not.

And upon whom has this blessed lot fallen; who are the men to be thus honored over all of their countrymen; who are they who go before, preaching the new gospel of economy, reform and hatred to all rings, ring-masters, and fishing parties? Excuse me, Messrs Editors and patient reader, for destroying this happy illusion; look for no great name; expect no brilliant meteoric one, for the poet hath said "Great aches from little toe-corns grow," and might not something grand grow out from even such a head.

The new movement then, has for its leaders the purblind Secretary of the last "economy and reform" league last, himself a disappointed office seeker, a bull-headed bit of obstinacy, without brains enough to keep him from butting against everybody with whom he comes in contact who is eternally yelping out "Ring"—"Ring"—"Ring!!!" and, I almost forgot it, on account of its close proximity to the tail, the Pittsburgh Commercial, "disorganized in chief". These be your friends, oh, Reformer! God save the country— A LOOKER ON.

ALLEGHENY, June 17, 1870.

The Oil Regions--Public Buildings in Franklin.

FRANKLIN, VENANGO CO., }
June 17, 1870. }

EDITORS GAZETTE: Since I arrived here, about ten days ago, I hear of nothing but oil, oil, oil, at meal times, in the parlor and in the street, and from all the information I can get, the business is now conducted on a better basis than formerly. There are not so many of those land sharks walking around. I have no doubt the experience of '64 and '65 have somewhat enlightened our people, and many to the cost of their bottom dollar. I will now give you some information, told me by a gentleman who has drilled many wells at Parker's. Says he, the Parker oil field is now the greatest in the country. There are three miles and a half of derricks, and each will cost about five thousand dollars, finding everything, and then the cost of running after commencing to pump will be one-fourth royalty. There is not more than one well in twenty that is paying for the outlay. A man should calculate to get his money out in twelve months with oil at $4.75 per barrel, running expenses six dollars at least per day, one-fourth royalty. Any one acquainted with figures will see that a well short of six barrels per day will not pay, and he says there are more wells pumping six barrels and under than over that amount. He further stated that he could not understand why there is not more prospecting for lubricating oil, as it commands more than double the price of light oil and one has not to drill one half the depth to get oil. I noticed new developments being made up the river from the junction of French Creek and river proving to be a splendid investment. One well I saw has commenced pumping ten barrels of splendid lubricating oil. They told at the well that the gravity was thirty-one degrees and selling at the tank at twenty-three to twenty-five cents per gallon. The average depth of the wells in this neighborhood is from two hundred and seventy-five to three hundred feet, the cost being less than half that at Parker's, with a greater certainty of a good paying well, and I counted seven wells pumping. Most of them have been yielding since 1864 and two since 1859, now pumping some eleven barrels per day. Several new leases have been given out. Mr. Smith tells me he has leased a parcel of land to a gentleman in Pittsburgh, with a well on it, which was a splendid well in 1865, and promises to be as good an investment as any on this farm. I am told that a large well was struck on the Reno property two weeks since, some say yielding one hundred and eighty barrels per day. That property is two miles below Oil City.

I took a walk to the new Court House yesterday, Court being now in session. I have seen many public buildings, but this one at Franklin is the handsomest I ever saw. It would have paid those in authority in Pittsburgh to have taken it as a pattern in place of the new Criminal Court Room. The room is about sixty feet wide, or more, and about ninety to one hundred feet deep; the benches are just the same as those of a church, the back pews being raised nearly three feet and declining to the level of the floor. At the railing, dividing the auditorium from the counsel and judges' bench, the floors are matted up the aisles and each pew provided with two spittoons. The jury chairs are high backs, covered with green morocco leather, and walnut furniture. The judges' bench is well arranged. In fact, it is a model building throughout, and the citizens of Venango county have cause to be proud of such a building. The National Hotel is now considered the best hotel since the Exchange was burned down. A very good table is kept and the charge is very moderate—two dollars per day. I am told that a new hotel is to be built on a first class scale; it is intended for the accommodation of guests who wish to bring their wives along to spend a short season in this healthy region; to divide a portion of the hotel into suits of rooms, bed-rooms and sitting room. I think it a good idea, and no doubt will pay. The new gas works are building which will do much to enliven the town. I may send a few lines more in a day or two, as I shall be traveling. Yours, &c.,

SINGULAR PHENOMENON.

Sudden Appearance of Lakes and Ponds in the Town of Wilton—Cellars and Wells Flooded.

[From the Saratogian.]

We rode out on Saturday to observe a peculiar phenomenon, which for several weeks has kept our farmers in the town of Wilton in a state of feverish speculation and wonderment. The section in which this really remarkable state of affairs exists, is about two miles out of Saratoga, in a northerly direction. Topographically, the district is a slightly elevated table land. The surface is broken and undulating. It is a good farming district, the section in which the ponds have appeared being dotted with neat farm houses, and occupied by some of our most prosperous farmers.

On this strip of land, covering an area of a mile broad by two miles in length, have appeared this Spring ten or a dozen good-sized ponds, varying in size from an acre to six or seven acres in extent. A peculiarity of these ponds is, that they have appeared in spots that have hitherto hardly known a puddle, in some instances in fields where the farmer has been wont to reap his richest harvests. They mostly came in April, and all through that month the farmers waited patiently for the subsiding of the waters, supposing that the unusual accumulation of the aqueous element was the result of the sudden melting of the snow. But May came, and still the miniature lakes retired not to the bosom of the earth. The farmers looked out each day in wondering surprise, rubbing their eyes, and expressing to their households in unstinted terms their amazement at the unheard of thing. All through the May drouth the ponds held their own, and only within a short time have they begun to subside. In some places they have crossed the highway, and the ground still bears the marks of the water. We saw, in the course of a mile's ride, a half dozen of these ponds. They have appeared mainly on the farms of John Graves, L. A. Grippen, Jarvis Butler, Daniel and Hiram Creal, Miles and John Ingersoll, and Norman Roblee. The largest of these we saw was one covering a portion of the farms of Daniel Creal and Miles and John Ingersoll. We estimated the present extent of the pond at about five acres. It takes in part of the road, covering it about a foot deep at the present time. We are informed, and the signs indicated it, that the water had been about two feet higher than it is now. Water was never known to stand on this ground before longer than a few days at a time. The locality is naturally dry, the soil is leachy, and no visible inlet or outlet appears either to this or to any of the other lakelets, except an artificial one opened by Mr. Crippen to drain off the intruding waters from one of his very best lots, which this year lies comparatively useless. From this latter pond a good sized stream flows constantly through ground that never before required drainage. In addition to the appearance of these ponds, the wells and cellars of the residents all through this particular section have been and are at present flooded from one to three feet deep. The wells have from five to seven feet more of water in them than was ever known before. We found one farmer, Mr. James Butler, who had been busy all day bailing out his cellar to get at his potatoes. The water had been three feet deep in it all the spring. It was never wet before, and one would suppose from the high position that it could not be flooded. There has been much wondering over this singular phenomenon in Wilton, but nobody has found a satisfactory solution of the mystery. It is a curious fact, however, and may be in some way connected with the phenomenon, that a couple of miles east of this section, but on lower ground, the water is lower than it has been known for years, and on the opposite side of the Adirondack ridge in Corinth, the water is full two feet lower than it was one year ago. But why water should thus suddenly appear in this strange way, on this sandy table land, is thus far unexplained, and must be left for the savans to philosophize upon.

Sir Roundell Palmer.

Sir Roundell Palmer might have been Lord Chancellor on the accession of the present Government, but he could not subscribe to the policy of the Cabinet on the Irish Church question. He is a man of marvellous application, and makes an immense income, a large part of which comes from his Chamber practice, $500 being the price of "an opinion" from him. The life of a great lawyer in Parliament is about the most laborious in England. He has to be early in Chambers, and yet has to stay late in the House of Commons, while a member can lie abed in the morning if detained in the House at night. Lord Palmerston, who used to sit out the proceedings, never rose till about eleven in the morning. More than one great English lawyer has sunk under hard work. Sir William Follet, the most brilliant English barrister of the century, was in his grave before he was fifty, and Lord Cairns, an Irishman, who, without any advantages of birth and position, was Chancellor before he was fifty, and subsequently leader of the House of Lords, is now in a very delicate condition.

Sir Roundell Palmer never seems to fail. On Sunday he regularly takes his school class of boys in humble circumstances; and many of our readers are familiar with his Book of Praise, almost as well known in England as Hymns, Ancient and Modern. He is the son of a country clergyman, and the ablest of a very able family.

A German Swindler.

The Cologne Zeitung has the following account of a rather smart swindler:

"An unparalleled swindle, lately perpetrated in a provincial capital has caused much stir. A gentleman stepped into the store of a merchant, followed by a servant. The gentleman, who wore his right arm in a sling, was taken for a military pensioner, and the merchant gladly placed before him such articles as he asked for. When he came to settle the account, however, he found he had not sufficient money, so he asked the merchant to write a note from his dictation to his wife, which he would send to his hotel by his servant. The merchant unsuspiciously wrote as he was desired and on a sheet bearing the name of the firm, these words:

Send me immediately, by the bearer, two hundeed thalers. Yours, Robert.' He smiling, closed up the note with the expression, 'Ah, then we are namesakes!' The servant took the note, and soon returned with the required sum. The gentleman paid for his wares, gave them to his servant to carry, and then went away. Some hours after the wife of the merchant visited him, and after talking of sundry things suddenly asked him why he sent for the two hundred thalers. The man was rendered speechless with astonishment when he saw what a cheat had been played upon him. The search after the sharper has not yet been successful."

Petroleum Items.

The Gealy and McKane well upon the R. L. Shaw farm, struck one week since, has steadily increased to one hundred barrels per day. The owners, after several years of hard work, and during which they have never realized one dollar on former investments, have at last met with this deserved success, Dame Fortune having "snickered right out" on them at the eleventh hour.

The R. L. Shaw farm at Rouseville is one of the best farms the oil regions ever produced. Its territory is not more than half developed, yet the production increases steadily and is now not less than 425 barrels per day, and a bona fide offer was recently made of $100,000 for a one-eighth interest.—Titusville Herald.

MONTANA has a citizen named Miss Given Evans, who, as may readily be inferred from her name, is by birth a Welsh woman. About a month ago she entered the U. S. District Court in Montana, and asked to have a naturalization certificate made out for her. The puzzled functionary settled his spectacles on his nose, examined the applicant with surprise, and then plunged into the United States statutes, in which he found no legal reason why a woman should not be legally naturalized; and so Miss Evans received her papers, with which she boldly went to the land office of the Territory. There she asked a clerk to make out her declaratory statement to pre-empt 160 acres of public land. The gentleman, like the other, was somewhat astonished at her request, but on examining authorities, he found no reason to repel the applicant, and her certificate was duty filed as No 1,000. The lady then went to work on her newly acquired land, and erected a house, and set herself about improving her farm, fencing it, and otherwise showing that, having it, she intended to keep it. She now has a cow, a yoke of oxen, and all the usual farming tools generally used by pioneers. Her land lies in Deer Lodge Valley, and some day the Northern Pacific Railroad will run close to it, making it quite a little fortune.

BISHOP SIMPSON, while in Europe, will visit Denmark, Sweden and Norway, as well as Germany and Switzerland, to attend various Methodist conferences.

THE LIVING MACHINE.

Injure the main spring of a watch and every portion of the works become disordered. The human stomach is to the human system what that elastic piece of metal is to the chronometer. It influences the action of the other organs, and controls to a certain extent, the whole living machine. The comparison may be carried farther, for as the weakness or other imperfections of the main spring is indicated on the face of the time-piece, so also is the weakness or other disorder of the stomach betrayed by the face of the invalid. The complexion is sallow or faded. The eyes are deficient in lustre and intelligence, and there is a worn, anxious expression in the whole countenance which tell as plainly as written words could do, that the great nourishing organ, whose office it is to minister to the wants of the body, and to sustain and renew all its parts, is not performing its duty. It requires renovating and regulating, and to accomplish this end Hostetter's Stomach Bitters may be truly said to be the one thing needful. The broken main spring of a watch may be replaced by a new one, but the stomach can only be repaired and strengthened, and this is one of the objects of the famous vegetable restorative which for eighteen years has been waging a successful contest with dyspepsia in all climates. As a specific for indigestion it stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopoea have been exhausted, without, at best, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome and palatable, yet powerful, stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia, the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland, as well as upon the stomach and bowels, the Bitters act with singular distinctness, regulating and reinvigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend.

PLANING MILL MEN
And Others,
TAKE NOTICE!

The undersigned has letters patent of the United States for the improved construction of weather-boarding, inside lining and of wainscoting for houses. The weather-boarding, by this patent improvement, being more particularly intended for vertical use, and combines great durability and beauty of appearance; and it is so constructed as to entirely avoid the use of joint strips, and to prevent water from entering the joint of the gaping or the showing of the joints by the action of the weather on the timber.

Inside lining and wainscoting by this new method are so constructed as to form perfect panels as cheaply as by the ordinary flooring boards alone; thereby preventing the showing of the joints from any cause, and leaving no refuges for bugs.

He has also purchased the patent right of what is commonly known as the "Moulded Weather-boarding."

He has disposed of the following territorial and shop rights in Allegheny county, for both patents, to wit:

To G. A. Mundorff, the right of the territory south of the river in said county.

To McQuewan & Douglass, the right for the First ward, Pittsburgh.

To Hill, Patterson & Co., shop rights for their mill, Sixth ward, Pittsburgh.

To Alex. McClure, for the borough of McKeesport.

To Parker & Paul, for First, Second, Third and Fourth wards, city of Allegheny.

To Reed Brothers, shop right at their mill in Seventh ward, city of Allegheny.

To Dunham, Saint & Co., for the boroughs of Sharpsburg and Etna; also the townships of Shaler and Indiana.

All persons are warned against infringing upon either of said patents, and those wishing to purchase will please call, or address me, at No. 75 Smithfield street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

DR. WHITTIER

CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL PRIVATE DISEASES, Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produce some of the following effects as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.

A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, Pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.

It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.

The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.

The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P. M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE ST. (near Court House) Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
SATURDAY, June 18, 1870.

The breadstuffs markets collapsed in both ew York and Chicago on Friday, occas- ned mainly by the withdrawal of French ders, and, as might be expected, prices opped materially and very suddenly. It is ry difficult to even conjecture in regard to e future, but there is one thing certain, the ospects for big prices are not as promising they were a few days ago. There is every ason to believe that there will be a full erage crop of wheat in this country, the co- ous rains of the last two or three weeks hav pretty generally silenced the complaints out drouth. It is stated that flour and wheat uivalent to one and a half million bushels wheat, were purchased in New York on ednesday, on French account, and of course, is was sufficient to excite the markets all er the country, and the sudden withdrawal buyers from that country, as might be ex- cted, had a very depressing influence. The icago Tribune, in commenting (editorially) this subject, very pertinently remarks: There is, undoubtedly, plenty of grain re- aining in the hands of first holders, but me of them seem disposed to hold longer, the hope of obtaining still larger prices. he wisdom of this course is, at least doubt- l. The yield in the United States will be a ir one, and large stocks are yet on hand, arly two million bushels being in store in icago alone, while the speculative spirit is strong that it has put up the price here to out 10 cents per bushel above the price that n be obtained for it in New York, after ying the cost of transportation. The Eu- pean demand may continue for some time t, but can scarcely be so imperative when eir own harvests are being gathered. It is ssible to wait for a market till the oppor- nity for selling at present prices has passed

ASHES—Steady but unchanged; Common da, 4c; Refined, 4¾c; Pearls, 9¾c; Pots, 7⅜c.

BUTTER—There is a fair demand but the pply is fully equal to it, while prices re- ain unchanged—14@18c for common to rime and 20@21 for choice.

BROOM CORN—Sales at 13@13½.

BEANS—There is scarcely any inquiry and e market is dull and prices nominal at $1,50 1,75 per bushel.

BROOMS—Store prices; Fancy, $5,50; No. 1, 4,50; No. 2, $4; No. 3, $3,50; Common, $2,50@3.

CORNMEAL—Is dull but the stock is light d prices unchanged; 95@$1 per bushel.

CEMENT—Sales of Louisville Hydraulic at 2@3¼ per bbl.

CHEESE—Sales of new Ohio Factory at 14c; w Ohio Goshen at 14½c, and Hamburg is oted dull at 15c.

CARBON OIL—Is dull but unchanged— andard brands 23 cts in a jobbing way.

CIDER—No. 1 sweet cider is quoted at $10 r bbl.

DRIED FRUIT—Apples may be quoted at 5½, for fair to choice, and Peaches at 5@ for quarters and 8@9 for halves. Blackber- es, 12@13; pitted cherries, 23@25.

EGGS—Under the influence of increased ar- vals the market is weak and lower—we now uote at 22@23.

FLOUR—There was less excitement to- ay, though the market continues strong, and me dealers are very stiff in their views and ould not willingly sell a round lot even at uotations. They have an idea that the top as not yet been touched and that if they sell ow they may have to replace at an increased ost. Good well established brands, from the est, either spring or winter, may be quoted ¼, though some parties quoted up to $6½, ut thus far but very few sales have been bove $6½. Rye Flour unchanged at $5.

GRAIN—There is a continued good demand r wheat, both millers and dealers being ady buyers, and the market continue excit- d and unsettled. It is difficult to quote correct- ; good red sells readily at $1,25, and choice, f which there is but little offering, might ring $1,28. Millers cannot afford to pay big rices for wheat raised east of Crestline, Ohio, consequence of the fact that the flour made om this wheat can only be shipped at local ates, while flour made from wheat west of at point is pro-rated—the former can be hipped through to Philadelphia or Baltimore about 20 cts. per barrel, while the latter ould be about 60. This is a singular arrange- ent, but these railroads sometimes do very ngular things. Oats firm but not quotably igher; Philadelphia dealers are offering 53, ree on cars, but holders of round lots are king 54 to 55—may be quoted at 50 in first ands, buyers furnishing sacks. There is no nprovement to note in the demand for corn, nd while the market is dull the feeling is ronger, and besides the stock in this market by no means large. We quote nominally at 5 to 88, for either ear or shelled. Rye is still uoted at 90 to 95. We can report a small sale n wharf at 92. Nothing doing in barley.

GROCERIES—There is a continued good de- and for Sugars, otherwise, the market is ather quiet. Cuba Sugar, 10¾@11; P. R., 10⅞ 11¼; New Orleans, 10½@12; Molasses Sugars, ¼@10½; Crushed, 14¼; "A" Coffee, 13⅛; "B," ; Extra C, 12¾; "C," 12¼. Coffee is firm but nchanged, at 18⅛@22⅛, for ordinary to hoice Rio. New Orleans Molasses 80@85. ice, 8½ for Rangoon, and 9 for Carolina.

HEMP—Sales of undressed Kentucky Hemp t $167.

PEANUTS—Dull. Tennessee, 8@9 cts.

PEARL BARLEY—No. 4, 5½c per lb; No. 3, ; No. 1, 6½. Oat Meal—A & B per bbl. of 0 lbs, $10; for half bbl, 100 lbs, $5,50.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
SATURDAY, June 18, 1870.

REVIEW FOR THE WEEK.

The oil market has been very sensitive this eek, and at times somewhat excited, but the olume of business was not large, nor was here much change in prices. During the first art of the week the feeling was decidedly weak, and operators generally predicted a still further decline, but since then the market developed a little more strength, and to-day the feeling seemed to prevail that the bottom had been touched, and that the indications now point to an advance instead of a decline. It is singular, too, in the face of the the largely increased production, but more singular still is the fact that while the daily yield in May as compared with April is something like twelve hundred larger, the increase in stock was only about 29,000 bbls. The exports to Europe are largely in excess of the same time last year, both from New York and Philadelphia, and the stock in both these ports is comparatively light. In Philadelphia the stock, according to a late circular, was only 31,800 bbls on June 11th, while the vessels under charter had aggregate capacity of 110,100 bbls with only 21,000 on board, leaving a deficiency of nearly 80,000 bbls; notwithstanding the exports have been unusually large, the stocks in the leading European markets are said to be comparatively light. In view of these facts it is inferred that the demand has increased in the same proportion with the production, and this has led some operators to conclude that prices are not to go lower, but that, on the contrary, the prospects generally are favorable for an advance.

Dr. H. W. C. Tweddle, of the Eclipse Oil Works, reports a shipment of 150 boxes of refined block paraffine, the first shipment of the kind ever made from Pittsburgh. The Doctor is one of our most experienced and skilful oil refiners and probably understands the refining business, proper, better than any other man here.

Receipts Crude this week, 33,673 bbls; last week, 24,188; January 1st to date, 454,989; same time last year 346,338. Exports of refined this week, 19,994; last week, 16,940; from January 1st to date, 278,488; same time last year, 188,585. Sales this week, 34,000 bbls crude; 14,000 bbls refined; last week, 11,575 bbls crude; 4,000 refined.

CRUDE.

Market firmer and an effort is being made to establish an advance. Sale 1,200 bbls spot at 11⅝; 1,000 seller June, (settlement of contract) at 11¾. Holders, generally, were asking 11⅞@12c for spot or seller June, but as yet there are no buyers above 11¾. Seller all year is quoted at 11½, and buyer all year is nominal at 13⅛@13½.

REFINED.

Not a single operation in this market, and the feeling was firmer, though there was not much change in prices. June quoted at 26¾@26⅞; and July at 26⅞@27, with sales in the east at both of these quotations—2,000 first half July, sold in New York, for Philadelphia delivery, at 27. No movement in "lines."

The Camelia and Collier, from St. Louis, and Juniata, from Cincinnati, constitute the arrivals since Friday, in addition to the local packets.

The Glendale did not get off on Saturday as expected, but will positively leave to-day.

The entertainment will be appreciated by those who admire literary and scholarly ability, united to sound practical logic and eloquent diction.

William Scott made information before Alderman Taylor Saturday, alleging that Francis Hughes, on the night of April 18th, 1870, stole from him $85. They were on a spree together, and Scott bases his information upon the fact that he started out with the money, when Hughes had none, and that at the end of the festivities he hadn't a cent and Hughes was flush. Warrant issued.

Got off Easy.—Michael Bryan while engaged in an embraglio in Pollock's tavern, on Penn and Water streets, Saturday evening, threw a beer glass at some one which passed out of the door and struck Molly Foley, a little girl who was passing along the side walk, inflicting a severe wound on her leg. Bryan was arrested and taken to the lock-up where he remained until yesterday morning, when he was fined five dollars and costs. He would have fared worse had the parents of the child appeared against him.

At It Again.—A report was current in the city last evening that W. J. Robinson, who was recently returned to the work house from where he had managed to escape some months since, had been shot and seriously wounded by one of the officers at the institution. It was reported that he rebelled against some order and when the officer attempted to enforce the order Robinson attacked him with a knife and the officer in self-defense drew his revolver and fired. We give the statement but will not vouch for the truth of it as we were unable to trace it to any reliable source.

Boy Run Over—Amputation.

Last evening about half-past six o'clock Martin Flattery, a lad about ten years old, was run over by a carriage on Penn street near Seventeenth. When he was picked up it was found that his right foot had been so badly crushed that the amputation of two toes was necessary. The operation was performed by Dr. Ahl at the lad's home in the immediate vicinity. The accident was wholly unavoidable and the driver of the carriage, who gave himself up, was released.

Distinguished Colored Visitors.

The commencement exercises of Avery College, (colored) Allegheny, will take place July 7th, when a number of distinguished visitors are expected to be present, among whom are Senator Revels, Judge J. J. Wright, of South Carolina, Major Chester, of this State, Rev. Mr. Thompson and others. In anticipation of their visit, the following committee has been appointed to receive them: Messrs. B. Pulpress, S. A. Neale, Thomas Lyle, Allegheny, G. S. Woodson, C. Brown, F. Harris, Pittsburgh, E. Harris, Andrew Jackson, and Oliver Adams, Birmingham.

Row Among Neighbors.

There was a misunderstanding among the residents on Pike street Saturday afternoon. Nobody knows what it commenced about, but the result was apparent Saturday night in the shape of four informations made before Alderman O'Donnell. Thomas Flinn appeared as prosecutor against Thomas Donald for assault and battery, second for surety of the peace, and third, against Thomas McCarty for assault and battery, while Mrs. Ellen Flinn brought up the litigation with an information against Mrs McCarty for tearing down her chignon. An attempt at restoring peace will be made by the official to-day.

LeVere's Chemicol Diorama.

This interetting entertainment will be given this (Monday) evening, in the Pennsylvania avenue M. E. Church, this city. The programme of which, as arranged, is one full of interest, consisting as it does, of accurate copies from the works of the great masters, representing Biblical and Historical scenes and paintings of all ages and nations of the world, together with many thrilling scenes connected with the late rebellion in this country. No person should fail to be present, as no more beautiful, pleasing and instructive entertainment could be presented to an intelligent audience.

Admission 25 cents—proceeds for the benefit of Sunday Schools.

Ruffianism.

A disgraceful scene occurred yesterday afternoon at the corner of Penn and Second streets. Religious services were being held there under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, during which a number of half-drunken men and ignorant women did all in their power to break up the assembly, by cursing, swearing and making indecent remarks. Such persons should remember that this is a country in which people are permitted to "worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience," and that this is the grand principle upon which the structure of the Government is based. Those who are too ignorant to learn this fact in any other way, should be taught by a prosecution under the laws of this State, which makes it a misdemeanor to disturb a public meeting, religious or otherwise.

Sudden Death.

Mr. John Martin died suddenly at his room, in McTighe's building, corner of Fifth avenue and Grant street, yesterday morning at nine o'clock. The deceased had been ill for several days past and on Saturday had recovered sufficiently to be about. He visited a drug store and purchased an ounce vial of laudanum to be used as an opiate, stating to the druggist that he had no sleep for several nights and needed the opiate. He took an over dose of the drug, and, although two physicians were called in, who did all they could to save him, he expired under its effects as stated. Coroner Clawson yesterday held an inquest and a verdict in accordance with the facts was rendered.

The deceased was a young man of many good qualities of head and heart, and his unfortunate death will be deplored by many warm personal friends. He was a printer by occupation, about thirty years of age, and unmarried. His funeral will take place this afternoon at three o'clock.

RESULT OF A RUNAWAY.

Two Boys Thrown from a Wagon—A Severe Accident.

A rather serious accident occurred Saturday afternoon on Liberty street. Mr. John Diehl, while attending to some business in the vicinity, left his horse and wagon standing at the corner of Seventeenth and Liberty streets. His own son and Emil Richte, both small boys, were in the wagon. During Mr. Diehl's absence a train came along the Pennsylvania Railroad track when the horse became frightened and ran away. Turning from Liberty into Seventeenth street the animal traversed that thoroughfare as far as the corner of Spring alley, where in attempting to turn off a collision occurred with a post. The wagon was demolished and the little boys thrown out. Young Diehl escaped with a few slight bruises, but Richte was dangerously cut in the head in three places and otherwise severely bruised. He was taken to the residence of his parents No. 720 Penn street, and medical assistance procured. The lad's injuries are quite severe, and fears are entertained that they may result fatally, although last evening he was still living. The accident occurred about five o'clock.

LITERARY CONTEST.

The Irving and Philomathean Societies of the Western University.

The sixth annual contest between the Irving and Philomathean Literary Societies took place Friday evening last in University Hall, corner of Diamond and Ross streets. The hall was filled with an intelligent and appreciative audience, and in addition to the literary feast, Mr. Julius Moore's orchestra favored the audience with delightful music.

The programme for the evening, which was strictly followed, was as follows:

Declamation—"The Battle," G. W. Woods, Philomathean; "William Tell," W. N. Frew, Irving; Essay—"The Beautiful," W. A. Booth, Irving; "The Anglo-Saxon Language," W. H. Knox, Philomathean; Oration—"The Tongue of Time," J. N. McGonnigle, Philomathean; "Skepticism and Credulity," H. J. McComb, Irving; Debate—"Should Education be Made Compulsory?" Affirm, A. T. Brown, Philomathean; Deny, J. N. Patterson, Irving.

The entertainment was a most excellent one, and the young gentlemen participating in it acquitted themselves with great credit.

The judges gave the following decision:

On declamations one of the judges declined to give expression, and the remaining two decided in favor of Mr. W. N. Frew, of the Irving Society.

On essay, the honor was awarded to Mr. W. H. Knox, of the Philomathean Society.

Oration—Mr. H. J. McComb, of the Irving Society, bore off this honor.

Debate—The judges announced that they were unable to arrive at a decision. Both contestants had acquitted themselves so creditably that it might seem invidious to award the honor to either. This announcement was received with great applause.

THE LAUGHRAN MURDER.

Court of Oyer and Terminer—Judges Sterrett and Collier—Trial of Nicholas Hoffman for Murder—Fourth Day's Proceedings.

MORNING SESSION.

Court met at nine o'clock, A. M., yesterday, and the case of the Commonwealth vs. Nicholas Hoffman, which has been pending since Wednesday morning, was resumed.

David Brosie was recalled to the stand and the cross-examination continued:

Can't say whether the door opens into the bar-room or into the hall. Nicholas Hoffman was on his hands and knees like, with his head toward the stairs. I saw Steve when I was going to pull Nick out; when I run in to part them Hoffman was on his hands and knees; when I run in Laughran struck at me. I saw Steve in the entry when I took hold of Nick to pull him out; could not say how far I got into the entry. I got in first and heard Nicholas moaning, and went in to get him out. Steve was standing at Nick's head when I took hold of Nick to pull him out. I could not tell exactly how we stood; I was excited; did not see Laughran after I took the "billy" from him. The door leading into the hall was open all evening. Nick Hoffman was bloody about the head and face when I brought him out; did not see any blood on his hands; had blood on my hand where I was cut.

Officer James Cotton sworn—I took Mr. Brosie to the lock-up the night of that difficulty. I took a handy-billy out of his hand which I gave to Captain Reed; I don't think I could recognize the handy-billy.

Cross-examined—Saw Brosie in Hoffman's saloon; got him in there. The door was not locked when I got Brosie; took him down to the lock-up; I can't say whether it was on Penn or Canal street, that he pulled out a handy-billy and said he got it in a scuffle; I took it from him and gave it to Captain Reed.

James S. Patterson, sworn—I am Mayor's clerk; Capt. William Reed is chief officer of the night police; I got a handy-billy from Capt. Reed one morning this week; I gave it to the District Attorney; (The billy was produced and identified as the one which witness had received from Capt. Reed.)

Cross-exained—I never showed a handy billy shortly after this occurrence and stated that a stranger had brought it to the office; I do not remember of having that handy-billy in my possession prior to getting it from Capt. Reed one morning this week.

Mrs. Henry Hoffman, sworn—I am the wife of Stephen Hoffman; on Wednesday, the 5th of October last we moved to this house on Penn street; we went to bed about half past nine o'clock, the house was closed; locked the bar room door and went to bed. I fell asleep; don't know how long I had been sleeping when I heard a rap, which was repeated several times; I did not waken anybody; the rap was repeated and he called "Steve," he called another time; Stephen got awake then; he called again and Stephen, got up, went to the window, raised it and looked out, asked who was there; the answer came "open the door, its me, Steve;" he got up and dressed himself, told him I was not coming down; he went down; don't know how long he was down, but I fell into a slumber; he came up and wakened me and told me to get up that Nicholas wanted to see me; I got up and came down; Nicholas said we were awful hard to wake; we were conversing together; Brosie, Nicholas and Steven were in the room when I went down; we sat and talked; the men had a drink then; they were talking a good while; there was a rap at the door; Stephen said don't talk so loud, there was some one at the door; Nicholas said it was some one going to work, and let them in to give them a drink; Stephen opened the door and Hanlon, Laughran and Lemon came in; Hanlon came in first; Nicholas shook hands with Hanlon and said he was an old friend; Hanlon asked Nicholas Hoffman whether he opened that house to-day; Nicholas said no it was his brother Stephen and gave him an introduction; Nicholas ordered a drink and wanted to pay for it, and Lemon would not let him, but said he would pay for it; then Nicholas said, we will have another. They had not the second drink drank, when Hanlon said: "I say, Nick, you are no working man any more." Nicholas said: "Oh yes, but not quite so hard." "Nick, you can't throw any coggles at us as you used to." Nicholas said he did not throw no more at one than he did at another; Hanlon said it was a G—d d—d lie, that he did. Hanlon was getting angry and they were still arguing on tee subject; Nicholas said, have another drink and I will pay for it; I don't think we came here to quarrel, I am sure I didn't; Laughran was at that time standing at the far end of the counter toward Penn street and said something about those coggles; Nicholas told him he was not talking to him; they were arguing some few minutes, Laughran and Nick; he then told Nick he would not go to work there again, to Zug's; Nicholas wanted to know the reason; he would give him no reason; Nicholas told him he had a mind to go to work there again some day; Laughran told him he could not work there any more; Nicholas asked if he would go and ask the boss and get a job who would put him out? He told him the men who worked there would put him out; Nicholas laughed, and said that was funny, and told him he could get a job there to-morrow if he wanted one; Laughran said he was a d—d liar, he could'nt; Nicholas told him that was a hard word to take off of any one; Laughran struck Nick somewhere about the upper port of the budy; I thought in the face; they both fell; Nicholas was lying under and Laughran on top; I was behind the bar, right in front of them, at the time; Lemon, Hanlon, Nicholas, Steve Brosie, and two strange men and myself, were in the room at that time; the strangers came in when the second drink was going to be drank; Hanlon went to the door and called them in; when the argument commenced my husband left the men and came around behind the bar to me, my husband ran from behind the bar to separate the men when the fight begun; they got them separated; they had no more than got up when Laughran struck my husband with a "handy-billy" on the side of the head; Laughran got my husband by the throat and they both fell; I then ran from behind the bar and seen Laughran kneeling on my husband's breast with his left hand on his throat. I got hold of Laughran's hand and pulled it off. He was going to strike at me but turned round and looked and did not strike and let go then. They then got them separated and he jumped onto Nick again. When he was pounding Nick my husband wanted to part them and was pulling at Laughran's back to get him away. I cried and told Steve that Laughran would kill him with that thing he had in his hand. It was something with a ball on the end of it that Laughran had in his hand. By this time they had all left; some at the front door and some at the back door; but Laughran, Stephen, Nicholas and Brosie, and Brosie had hold of Laughran trying to get him to the door. Laughran was still trying to get back towards Nicholas and Stephen who had run back. I think Hanlon ran out the back way but the rest ran out the front way. Brosie was trying to put Laughran out and Laughran was trying to get the over hand of him to get back and I helped to put him out; we had him out and he pushed the door—I thought it was him—before we could get the door closed; I told Brosie for God sake not to let him in again and we pushed at the door as hard as we could; Brosie locked the door; Nicholas had set down and wanted Stephen to go for a Doctor; he was bleeding about the head and had his head leaning on his hand; I told Nick first that I would not let Steve go out that they might kill him outside;—Steve told me to come and look at the awful cut that Nicholas had got in the head; Steve told Nick to get up and walk the room that it was not good for him to set so quiet; Steve got Nicholas by the arm and they had walked two or three times up and down the bar; I was standing at the end of the counter next to the entry crying and they were coming toward me, when I recognized two men coming in the back way; one was Laughran; the other I did not know; they were in their shirt sleeves; Laughran had his hand uplifted and had the same weapon in his hand that I had seen before; I hollowed, my God, Nick, they are coming again; Nick jumped around and threw up his hand; I can't say whether Laughran struck Nick then or not with the handy billy. They both clinched there and tusseled until they got out in the kitchen or entry or wherever they were; I saw no more after that; I could not say what was said; Steve let go of Nick's arm and I ran after him crying and hollowing; I thought he was going out and I was going to follow after him; just at that time I heard Nick crying "Oh! Steve." My husband wanted to run out towards Nick to help hin and I got hold of his arm and tore the whole shirt sleeve out of his shrit trying to keep him back; I told him they would kill him and he said they were killing his brother; he ran out, and I was crying. Brosie had gone out just after Nick. I ran behind the bar when Lemon came running in from the back way, going to run through the front door. He said, "Open this door or I will break it through." I ran up to open the door and the key was lying on the floor in front of the door, and I picked it up and unlocked the door and let him out; can't say whether I locked the door again or not. By this time Brosie and Stephen were bringing Nicholas into the bar-room, one having hold of each arm; Nick said they had nearly killed him, and told Brosie to run for a doctor; Brosie went out and went for a doctor; I went to close the door that goes out into the entry and lock it, and I could not get it shut; I picked something up and it was a coat; I threw it on the table; shut the door but could not find the key; heard a scuffle at the front door; went and opened it and saw Lemon standing with a police; I did not know that any one had been cut, but the police said there had been a man cut; some of the police went back and some stayed in the bar room, and I think some of them went up stairs; Lemon told the police that Nick was the man; they were taken to the Mayor's office.

About the time I told Nicholas to go, before the fuss, I heard fiddling, singing and dancing in at Lemon's, next door; heard it all evening; between the time of the first difficulty and the second I heard Nicholas say his head hurt him; did not hear him make any threat against Laughran; did not see a knife in his hand; would have seen it if he had had one; can't say distinctly how far Laughran came inside of the door, but I think from two to three feet; he came in a running way; Nicholas was right in front of Laugran when the latter came in.

Cross-examined—We moved into that house on the 6th of October, and opened the bar and sold some ale and beer; closed about 9½ o'clock; we moved from Troy Hill; the man who was going to board with us who had had the house before us showed us how to lock up and went up to bed in third story; Stephen came up and wakened me; we sat and talked a long time after I went down; the only time I remember looking at the clock was when the police took the man away, it was then about four o'clock, Stephen came around the bar and stood by me; did not see him do nothing; there was no hammer about the place; I told him I was afraid there was going to be a fight; he said I need not be afraid, there would be no fight; Hanlon and Nicholas were talking when Stephen came around the bar first; I thought Laughran was intoxicated; he was leaning on the counter, near the door; the parties all had coats on, except Lemon and my husband; Laughran said to Nick that he could not throw no coggles at him.

At this point Court took a recess until half-past one o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Court convened at half-past one o'clock, and the trial was resumed.

Mrs. Mary Hoffman was re-called to the stand, and the cross-examination proceeded with:

The first thing Laughran said to Nick was that he could not throw coggles at him now; Nick made a reply and said he could if he was working there; I have no idea of the time; Nick and Laughran went into the entry until my husband and Brosie brought Nick out of the hall. It was nearly four o'clock when the fight was over.

Re-direct.—Witness described the position of the parties at the commencement of the second fight. My child is six or seven weeks old.

Capt. William Reed, sworn—I was Captain of the police on the 6th of October last; was in charge of the lock-up; at the time one of the Hoffmans was brought down, I received from officer Colton a "handy-billy," which I put in a private drawer; when the case was coming up before, I gave it to the Mayor, and the Mayor returned it to me; I then kept it until yesterday or the day before, when I handed it to Mr. Patterson, Mayor's clerk; the "billy" was shown witness, and he identified it as the one he received from the officer.

Cross-examined—The Mayor returned the "billy" to me the day after I gave it to him; the officer laid it on the desk and said it had been picked up on the floor.

Re-direct—I saw Nicholas Hoffman on the morning he was arrested; he appeared to have been badly used up, and was bloody about the head and face; there was blood on his clothes. I did not examine his clothes particularly.

Joseph Shearer, sworn—I knew the house in which Stephen Hoffman lived; have been in it; was at the house last night. Henry Mertz and Peter Wilkinson were there. The window shutters were closed; they were half shutters, and the gas was lighted. I stood on the window sill and looked in; Mertz, Stephen and Nicholas Hoffman, and I think Nicholas Hoffman's father, were there. I could see the parties by looking over the sill. (Witness stood aside.)

Henry Mertz, sworn—Was at Hoffman's house last night when Mr. Shearer was there; was inside with the others named by Mr. Shearer. Shearer was standing up looking over the window shutter. I spoke in a very loud tone of voice.

Cross-examined—Spoke as loud as I could. Witness described the tone of voice in which he spoke.

Mr. Shearer recalled—I could not understand a word Mertz said when I was on the window sill; I can hear very distinctly; had been drinking nothing but mineral water; I went inside of the house and Mertz went outside.

The counsel for defendant called Stephen Hoffman, and proposed to put him on the stand.

Counsel for Commonwealth objected on the ground that he was joined in the same indictment with the defendant on trial.

Mr. Swartzwelder, in support of the offer, said that many years ago, when the defendant was not permitted counsel and cross-examination was denied, and even the deposition of parties admitted in evidence against him, a co-defendant was not permitted to testify. There had, however, been a great change, and there was a tendency to a relaxation of that rule, as was evident from the fact that it had even reached the Pennsylvania Legislature, so far as civil cases were concerned. He cited several autorities in support of the offer.

Col. Bayne followed in support of the objection, and held that the authorities cited by counsel for the defendent did not apply to the case under consideration. He held that the admission of the testimony would be virtually to admit the defendent to testify in his own behalf.

Mr. Marshall, for defendent, also addressed the Court in favor of the admission of the testimony.

Judge Collier delivered the opinion of the Court. He stated that he was fully convinced that the admission of the testimony would be the true principle, but the Court has decided to exclude it on the ground that such has been the uniform practice in this Court, and throughout the State. We do so for the reason that he is joined in the indictment as a principal in the second degree, and the Court are clearly of the opinion that an acquittal of the defendant on trial, as principal, could be pleaded in bar by defendant.

Dr. McKelvey, sworn.—This witness stated that he had attended defendant after the fight and described the injuries he had received. The wound on his head, he stated, might have been made by a handy billy.

W. J. McFetteridge, sworn.—I knew Thomas Laughran since 1868. His reputation in the ward was that of a fighting man.

Cross-examined.—I sell whiskey and ale and other soft drinks. Have been engaged in the business a number of years. I say he was a fighting man from what I know personally.

John Schubert, sworn.—Was boarding at Stephen Hoffman's house when the fight occurred. I helped to close up the house that night about half-past nine o'clock. Before we closed up I heard singing, jumping and dancing in the next house, Lennon's and Hanlon's. I went to bed about ten o'clock.

Samuel Allison, sworn—I know Nicholas Hoffman; have known him for seventeen or eighteen years; so far as I know I never saw or heard anything against Nicholas Hoffman; I have never heard a good citizen speak a hurtful thing of him, I have heard others speak something of him; but I could not take their word.

Aaron Gozad, sworn—I have known Nicholas Hoffman about ten years; I have heard people say he would take his own part; never heard a man say that he was not a law-abiding citizen.

R. J. McGowan, sworn—Have known Nicholas Hoffman for ten or twelve years; never heard anything against his reputation; never hear of him in any difficulty until this.

A number of other witneses were called as to reputation, after which the case for the defendent closed.

The Commonwealth called but one witness in rebuttal.

Officer Nelson, sworn—Am a tipstave in this Court; know where Stephen Hoffman lives; was there to-day; I stood by the window; could hear persons talking and could distinguish voices.

Court then adjourned to meet at 10 o'clock A. M. Monday.

ALMOST A SUICIDE.

An Ex-Policeman Attempts Self-Destruction—But is Unsuccessful—The Cause and the Result.

Some excitement was created in Allegheny yesterday by the announcement that Alf. Gobby, formerly of the Allegheny police force had attempted to commit suicide at his home in the Third ward. Gebby was on the city force under Mayor Drum, and proved a faithful and efficient officer. With the incoming of the new administration he retired, and was employed by Alderman Mullen. Matters seem not to have progressed very satisfactoraly since the change, and for the past two or three weeks he, it is said, has been drinking very heavily. Saturday night about ten o'clock he alarmed his friends by rushing into the house and proclaiming that he was pursued by a man with a revolver intent upon taking his life. As it was evidently an attack of mania potu, a physician was summoned, who left him at midnight, in care of the family. Yesterday morning, about four o'clock, his mother heard a noise and entering his room found he had cut a gash about four inches long and one deep in the right side of his throat. He had used a case knife for the purpose. She immediately, but with considerable difficulty, took it from him during which she was severely cut in the hand. She then called his two brothers from an adjoining room, but during the instant her attention was thus called away, the man grasped a pair of scissors and attempted to deepen the wound. These were taken away, and a third time he grasped the flesh with his hands and endeavored to tear the wound afresh. By this time his brothers arrived and he was pinioned. The physician was again summoned and dressed the wound. Considerable blood flowed from it, but no arteries or veins were cut, as the flesh had become bloated by excessive drinking. To this circumstance the physician ascribes his escape from immediate death. No serious consequences are apprehended from the wound, but it is feared the delirium may result fatally, as it is pronounced an attack of an exceedingly violent and dangerous character.

Gebby is unmarried, about 28 years of age, and resided with his widowed mother and his two brothers at the corner of Middle street and Third alley, Allegheny. While on the regular police force he was of temperate habits and one of the best officers. Last evening he was still suffering from the "tremors," and it is doubtful what will be the result.

RAILROAD EXCURSION.

Excursionists at Erie—Cruise in the Bay—Visit to the Sloop-of-War "Michigan"—An Interesting Boy—Return Trip—Complimentary Resolutions—Presentation—Air Brake to Supercede the Hand—Personal.

AT ERIE.

Immediately after breakfast on Friday morning, the 17th inst., the excursionists proceeded from the Reed House in carriges to the pier at the foot of State street, when they went on board a scow, or pic-nic barge, which was towed up the bay by the steam tugs Walter Scott and Minnie Harris, as far as the Pittsburgh docks. In the passage up the bay a fine view was afforded of the Erie Water Works, which are certainly the most simple and economical that we have seen anywhere. They consist merely of the necessary machinery for pumping the water out of the Lake, and a supply "pipe." The machinery is driven by natural gas, which is supplied from a well on the premises.

After surveying the Pittsburgh docks, the party "bouted ship," and went down the bay as far as the Philadelphia docks, when they turned about again and proceeded to the sloop of war "Michigan," which was lying at anchor some distance from the shore. The Michigan, which was built in sections in Pittsburgh in 1844, is a third class sloop of war, and is pronounced by her commander to be one of the best vessels of the kind afloat. So much for Pittsburgh manufactures. She is a craft of five hundred and sixty tons burthen, carries six broadside guns and one howitzer, and ships a crew of ninety-one men, who, with the officers, number one hundred and five, and can run at the rate of thirteen knots an hour under a full head of steam. As a reminiscence of one of the most important and successful excursions that ever has been made in the country, we give the names of the principal officers, as follows: Commander, J. E. Jouett; Lieutenant Commanders, J. J. Reade and Edwin M. Shepard; Lieutenants, F. M. Barber and —— Morris; Mate, Cornelius Cronin; Surgeon, Theoron Wolverton; Paymaster, H. M. Denniston; Chief Engineer, William B. Brooks; Carpenter, Jonas Dibble.

The visitors were received most gracefully at the head of the gangway by Lieut Shupard, and on deck by commander J. E. Jouett, who is certainly one of the most agreeable gentlemen we have ever met. Just as the first of the party stepped on the gangway, the Quarter Master (helsman) tapped "four bells"—ten o'clock. The engine rooms and cabin were examined minutely and refreshments were furnished to such as would participate. After spending a very pleasant hour on board the Michigan, the party re-embarked on the scow, and as soon as the bow line was slipped sent up three rousing cheers for commander Jouett and the other officers of the sloop, who responded most lustily. Three cheers were then given for the crew, who almost instantly bounded into the rigging, and, in nautical phrase, as nearly as they could in the short time in which they had to do it, "manned the yards." This was a high compliment to the distinguished visitors, and was by them duly appreciated and recognized. In a few moments the excursionists were landed safely on the pier where they at first embarked.

Our account of this pleasant cruise in the far famed, land-locked harbor of Erie, would not be complete if we omitted to mention that the name of the Captain of the Scow and steam tugs is James Hunter. His son, Silas Hunter, a little boy of twelve years, attracted the attention of all, and was an object of high admiration. Although he is not yet thirteen years of age, he acted the part both of engineer and helmsman. So great was the admiration which his skillful management of his tiny craft excited, the excursionists made him a very handsome donation, which he received in a manner that would have done credit to the most polite and accomplished Frenchman.

RETURN TRIP

The excursion train was shifted from the Passenger to the Freight Depot of the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad, which abuts on State street, close by the pier, where the excursionists landed. At eleven o'clock, A. M., all had taken their seats in the luxurious suite of cars furnished by the Pennsylvania Railroad for the occasion, and in two or three minutes the train was under headway, on the return trip. A stop of ten minutes was made at the shops of the P. & E. Railroad, to allow the party an opportunity of visiting them, after which the train sped on its way to Corry, where it arrived at 12.15 P. M.

DINNER AT KANE.

From Corry the train proceeded down the Philadelphia and Erie road at a rapid rate, and arrived at Kane, which is distant from Erie about ninety-five miles, at 2 o'clock. P. M Here all partook of a very substantial dinner

COMPLIMENTARY RESOLUTIONS.

Shortly after the train left Kane, a meeting of the excursionists was held in the main saloon of Vice President Scott's car, which formed one of the suite. The Hon. C. F. Collier, President of the Petersburg Railroad Company, was called to the chair, and the following gentlemen were appointed Secretaries: P. L. Cleapor, General Ticket Agent of the North Western Railroad, South Carolina, and T. H. De Witt, Secretary of the Board of Public Works of Virginia. E. J. D. Myers, Superintendent of the Richmond and Fredericksburg Railroad, and others, offerrd the following preamble and resolutions, which, on being seconded by the Hon. C. Delano, were adopted:

At a meeting of the excursionists, held on the train on the 17th day of June, 1870, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

The invited guests of the Northern Central, Pennsylvania Central, and Philadelphia & Erie railroads, having experienced, for the space of nearly one week, the elegant hospitality and sincere kindness of the officers and attaches of said railroads, desire to make known to our pains-taking entertainers our full sense of the extraordinary efforts which have been made to contribute to our enjoyment by all whose position and connection enabled them so to do, and our grateful assurance of their complete success; Therefore, be it

Resolved, That our acknowledgements are hereby tendered to the hosts for their profuse and elaborate preparations for our entertainment, instruction and amusement.

Resolved, That we hail with satisfaction the demonstrations of welcome with which we have been greeted throughout the extensive and beautiful region, which it has been our privilege to visit.

Resolved, That our thanks are especially due, and are hereby tendered to the Committee of Invitation: Thos. A. Scott, 1st Vice President P. R. R., Thomas T. Firth, Treasurer P. R. R., A. J. Cassatt, General Superintendent, P. R. R., J. N. Du Barry, Vice President N. C. Ry., A. R. Fiske, General Superintendent N. C. Ry., and W. A. Baldwin, General Superintendent P. & E. Ry.

Resolved, That without being invidious we cannot forbear a special reference to Major Thomas T. Firth, Treasurer of the P. R. R., the true type of the finished gentleman, and Messrs. A. J. Cassatt, General Superintendent P. R. R., Robert S. Hollins, Secretary N. C. Ry., W. A. Baldwin, General Superintendent P. & E. Ry., Messrs. D. M. Boyd, S. T. De Ford, James McC. Creighton and H. P. Dunbar, as contributors in an eminent degree to our enjoyment.

Resolved, That the high rate of speed—fifty-four miles an hour at least—which we attained on several occasions on our tour with perfect safety, and the regularity with which we made the different points according to the special schedule, clearly demonstate that these roads are substantially constructed and under the most excellent management.

Resolved, That the press, generally, be requested to publish these resolutions.

At the time the meeting was held the train was running at the rate of nearly fifty miles an hour, and many did not like to pass into the saloon where many of the excursionists were assembled. Those who were present could not hear distinctly, owing to the rattle of the train, and when the resolutions were examined at Reno, many thought they were not strong enough, and determined to hold another meeting in Baltimore on Saturday, when they would be able to mature something that would more adequately express their intense satisfaction with the treatment they had received, and their high admiration of the solidity, safety and excellent management of the important thoroughfares over which they had passed. Besides, it was noted that there were some omissions in the resolutions. No mention was made of the Allegheny Valley Railroad, one of the most substantial and best managed over which the excursionists had the pleasure of passing. Nor of the Oil Creek and Allegheny River Road, which is also in excellent condition. Nor of Col. J. J. Lawrence and John Pitcairn, Esq., the General Superintendent and General Manager, respectively, of these last mentioned roads, although these gentlemen contributed in no small degree to the comfort, safety and entertainment of the party. These omissions we are assured were purely accidental, and are sufficiently explained by the high rate of speed at which the train was running, which made it difficult for the passengers to sit upright on their seats, and much more so, to collect their thoughts or write them when collected. The meeting to be held in Baltimore will no doubt supply everything that was omitted, for we never heard gentlemen speaking more enthusiastically of their entertainers than those who composed the railroad excursion party.

A handsome donation in greenbacks was made to the colored waiters who accompanied the excursionists. The presentation speech was made by J. Ross Thompson, Esq., Solicitor of the P. & E. R. R., and was responded to in a decidedly neat and sensible speech by Mr. Henry Williams (colored), in the course of which he said the colored people did not think of such a thing as social equality. They were thankful for, and contented with, the enjoyment of their political rights.

During a stop of some thirty minutes at Renovo, the party were afforded a good opportunity of examining the workshops of the P. & E. R. R.

FRIENDSHIPS FORMED.

The Pittsburgh portion of the party only went as far as Loch Haven, whence they proceeded over the Bald Eagle and P. R. R. to Altoona, where they stopped for the night, and arrived home at half-past ten o'clock on Saturday morning. As soon as it was known that they would take their leave of the party, many of the Southern gentlemen exchanged cards with them, and tokens of friendship were thus given that will no doubt be long cherished.

PROGRAMME CARRIED OUT.

The balance of the party proceeded to carry out the programme, which they have done by this time most successfully.

AIR BRAKES.

Not a hand brake was used during the entire trip. The Westinghouse Patent Air Brake was used most satisfactorily and successfully throughout the tour. It is destined, in a short time, to supercede entirely the use of the hand brake. Frequent experiments demonstrated that on the heaviest grade it will bring a train, running at the highest rate of speed, to a perfect "stand still," within the length of itself. One of the Southern gentlemen remarked to us that, in his opinion, it was the greatest invention of the age, and will be a great saviour of both life and property. Every railroad in the country should use it at once.

PERSONAL.

We received the kindest and most gentlemanly attention from all. Our special thanks are due to our firm and highly esteemed friend Stephen Little, Esq., Auditor of the Northern Central Railway, for courtesies extended. Mr. Little, with his usual foresight, provided for the occasion a skeleton map, which showed the different lines of railroad very distinctly, and was a source of great satisfaction to those who could not, without its aid, have disentangled the net work of railways with which our State is covered. Also, to D. M. Boyd, Esq., Assistant General Passenger and Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad. We do not know how the excursionists could have got along without Mr. Boyd's agency. He is one of the most polite and obliging of gentlemen, and being possessed of rare ability, he makes a first-rate officer, and is perfectly at home in all the intricate details of the general ticket and passenger department. Everybody knows that Messrs. Robert Pitcairn and James McC. Creighton, of the P. R. R., and Col. J. J. Lawrence, of the A. V. R. R., could not be present without showing attention, and it is unnecessary for us to say that on this occasion, as on many others, they placed us under great obligations. Our special thanks are also due to John Pitcairn, Esq., General Manager of the O. C. & A. R. R., and Messrs. W. A. Balwin, General Superintendent, and J. W. Reynolds, Superintendent Western Division P. & E. R. R., for the urbanity they displayed and the information they gave.

THAT "ISLND" AGAIN.

The Property Claims by Various Parties—A Consultation With the City Authorities—The Matter Under Consideration.

The GAZETTE of last Monday alluded to the fact that a new claimant had appeared for the land known as Smoky Island. The matter, it seems, is not destined to end all in smoke, as since then it has excited considerable attention. Not one, but numerous claimants now are on the tapis. As affairs assumed importance the City Property Committee of Allegheny Councils, by public notice requested the claimants to meet at City Hall in consultation with them, which had the effect of calling together a goodly delegation at the designated place Friday evening.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Geo. D. Riddle, Chairman of the Committee, who stated the object of the gathering and invited the claimants to present their claims.

General J. K. Moorhead, the first speaker, announced that he represented about a dozen old citizens, claiming what was Smoky Island; their title came through the Neal patent, and was purchased about 1849. They were willing to part with their claim to the city, and ready to enter into negotiations as soon as the city was prepared.

The heirs of Michael Tanner (colored) next presented their claims to the property, but failed to throw any new light on the subject further than hearsay, viz: at some indefinite period in history their ancestor squatted upon the island, built his log cabin and continued for some years in the occupation of raising potatoes, etc. There is no deed or other writing upon record to show that he ever owned the land upon which he appears to have lived and the presumption is that he simply dwelt there for a considerable time, and this fact has given rise to the belief among his heirs that he was actually once in possession of the island. The deed (if it ever existed) was never put on record, and this neglect is likely to prove a serious bar to its recovery.

D. W. Bell, Esq., on behalf of the heirs of the late John Irvin, presented their claim to Nelson's Island, and there appears to be no other claimant for this portion of the property. Their title comes directly through Ezra G. Nelson, who patented the land from the State about sixty years ago. But the queer part of this claim is this: On the original map of the river front, now in possession of the city, there is only one island, viz: Kilbuck or Smoky Island, no trace or evidence of any such thing as this second island. Query—Where did it come from? Some say it has been formed since 1783, the date of the above map. That solution won't do; for many, yet living, remember the tall old oaks and sycamores that stood upon the island that gave evidence of much greater age than eighty or ninety years. The best solution appears to be that Nelson's Island has been formed from the original island, by the action of the water cutting it in two, and if this be correct, is it not the same island and does not the Neal patent cover the whole property, thereby cutting off the Nelson-Irwin claim entirely?

After hearing these claimants, the meeting adjourned until Friday evening, July 1st, when the matter will be again considered.

Water Committee Contract.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Yesterday's Leader contained a paid notice in the interest of Mr. John Flinn, contractor, giving a very untrue statement of the action of the Water Committee in letting the contract for excavating for water pipe. The facts of the case are these: Mr. Flinn made a bid, (not according to the specifications as published in the official papers,) but inserting certain provisos. In case rock was encountered, he was to get a certain price more, &c. Messrs. S. McElhany & Co. bid strictly in accordance with the specifications, with no provision for "extras," &c. The Water Committee (having had valuable experience in the matter of "extras," amounting to more than the original contract,) gave the contract to Messrs. McElhany & Co., believing them to be the lowest and best bidders. If Mr. Flinn wishes to bring the Water Committee before Councils to-day, he can do so, and I have no doubt but Councils will sustain their Committee.

The Water Committee are all honorable gentlemen and acting under oath, and it is their duty, as they have done in this case, to give the contract to the lowest and best bidder, and thereby save the city several thousand dollars. There has been entirely too many of certain provisos in contracts by the committees of Councils, and I hope in the future the Committees will throw out all bids with these little "provisos" in, and make the contractors bid strictly in accordance with the specifications, and thereby save the city from extravagant expenditure.

I may state that in consequence of the "provisos" of Mr. Flinn, the Water Committee visited the ground where the excavations are to be made, before awarding the contract.

Fifth Avenue, in 20th Ward,
